CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY

INFORMATION REPORT

This Document contains information affecting the National Defense of the United States, within the meaning of Title 18, Sections 793 and 794, of the U.S. Code, as amended. Its transmission or reveiation of its contents to or receipt by an unauthorized person is prohibited by law. The reproduction of this form is prohibited.

Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) prisoner of war camps are not located in fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the population and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually "Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying the particular area.	Prisoner of War Camps  NO. OF PAGES  REQUIREMENT NO. RD  REFERENCES  THE SOURCE EVALUATIONS IN THIS REPORT ARE DEFINITIVE.  THE APPLAIAL OF CONTRINT IS TENTATIVE.  (NOR KEY SEE REVERSE)  Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) prisoner of war camps are not located in itxed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the obbulation and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually Propagands to the Rhemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in tharge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate reely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to revent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or parachuting.	NTRY	Indochina		REPORT NO.
Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) prisoner of war camps are not located in fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the population and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually "Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations of parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upor the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buvine	REQUIREMENT NO. RD  REFERENCES  THE SOURCE EVALUATIONS IN THIS REPORT ARE DEFINITIVE.  THE APPAREAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE.  (FOR REY SEE REVERSE)  Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the obpulation and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in thereof supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate recely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or carachuting.  The prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administer he camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon he cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying and cooking their own food. They also receive a weekly ration of DRV manufacture igarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners treated	r		Vietnam	DATE DISTR.
Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) prisoner of war camps are not located in fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the population and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually "Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying the particular area.	Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) prisoner of war camps are not located in itsed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the obsplation and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in there of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate reely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or aerachuting.	г	ritsoner of war camps	7	NO. OF PAGES	2
Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) prisoner of war camps are not located in fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the population and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually "Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations on parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying	Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) prisoner of war camps are not located in fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the obpulation and are watched by RRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in thange of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate creely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or arachuting.	OF INFO.			REQUIREMENT NO.	RD
Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) prisoner of war camps are not located in fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the population and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually "Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations on parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying the cost of living in the particular area.	Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) prisoner of war camps are not located in fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the obpulation and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate rely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to brevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or carachuting.  La prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administer he camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon he cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying and cooking their own food. They also receive a weekly ration of DRV manufacture igarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners are treated	ACQUIRED			REFERENCES
Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) prisoner of war camps are not located in fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the population and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually "Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations on parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying the cost of living in the particular area.	Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) prisoner of war camps are not located in fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the obpulation and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate rely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to brevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or carachuting.  La prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administer he camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon he cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying and cooking their own food. They also receive a weekly ration of DRV manufacture igarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners are treated	· .		• .
fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the population and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually "Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations of parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upor the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying	Exed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the obpulation and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate precely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administer he camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying and cooking their own food. They also receive a weekly ration of DRV manufacture digarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners are treated			ISAL OF CONTENT I	S TENTATIVE.
fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the population and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually "Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations of parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upor the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying	Exed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the obpulation and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate precely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administer he camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying and cooking their own food. They also receive a weekly ration of DRV manufacture digarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners are treated
fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the population and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually "Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations of parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upor the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying	Exed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the obpulation and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate precely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administer he camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying and cooking their own food. They also receive a weekly ration of DRV manufacture digarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners are treated
fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the population and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually "Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations of parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upor the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying	Exed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the obpulation and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate precely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administer he camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying and cooking their own food. They also receive a weekly ration of DRV manufacture digarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners are treated
fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the population and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually "Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations of parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upor the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying	Exed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the obpulation and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate precely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administer he camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying and cooking their own food. They also receive a weekly ration of DRV manufacture digarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners are treated
fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the population and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually "Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations of parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upor the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying	Exed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the obpulation and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate precely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administer he camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying and cooking their own food. They also receive a weekly ration of DRV manufacture digarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners are treated
fixed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the population and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually "Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations on parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upor the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying	Exed installations. Prisoners are concentrated in villages, live among the obpulation and are watched by DRV guerrilla troops. Each camp is administered by a committee comprising a chief, four or six supervisors who are usually Propaganda to the Enemy" agents, and one man, usually a prisoner, who is in charge of supplies.  Prisoners are not confined after questioning but are permitted to circulate precely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administer he camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying and cooking their own food. They also receive a weekly ration of DRV manufacture digarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners are treated freely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or parachuting.  All prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administe the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upor the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying	Preely within the village. The DRV moves its prisoners every three months to prevent area familiarization, escape attempts, and danger of enemy operations or parachuting.  Ill prisoners are treated the same as DRV troops. The committee which administer he camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying and cooking their own food. They also receive a weekly ration of DRV manufacture rigarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners are treated	fixed popula- by a co "Propaga"	installations. Prisoner tion and are watched by ommittee comprising a ch ganda to the Enemy" ager	rs are concent DRV guerrilla nief, four or	trated in villages, la troops. Each camp six supervisors who	ive among the is administered are usually the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upor the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying	he camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon he cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying and cooking their own food. They also receive a weekly ration of DRV manufacture igarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners are treated	freely preven	within the village. The area familiarization,	ne DRV moves i	its prisoners every t	hree months to the camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upor the cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying	he camp gives each prisoner a daily allowance, the amount of which depends upon he cost of living in the particular area. Prisoners are responsible for buying and cooking their own food. They also receive a weekly ration of DRV manufacture igarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners are treated cigarettes and DRV publications. Generally speaking, the prisoners are treated decently although they lack medicinal drugs.

X AIR X NAVY X FBI AEC

Distribution Indicated By "X"; Field Distribution By "#".)

25X1

